Do you feel it? The city? The internet? The mobile phones and the shopping? The many people? You? Me?

In the workshop we want to sense the single wires, which make everything so confusing and complicated. We want to untangle, but also build little wire turmoils, weave lines into one another, bend the wire into new forms by soldering and hammering.

Out of bare, colored, thick or soft, long and short wire, we design our own images. The unclear and turmoiled is about to be formed.

Are you wired? Are you weird?
